

Amy lives in Jefferson Hills with her husband, Jess; her 21-year-old daughter, Kaitlyn, who happens to have Down syndrome; and her 17-year-old son, Evan, who happens to have autism.

Amy is an attorney with over 25 years of legal experience and many years of experience advocating for her children and others with disabilities. Having previously served on the Board when the Down Syndrome Association of Pittsburgh was known as the Down Syndrome Group of Western Pennsylvania, Amy's motivation to again join the Board is to share her professional and personal experience and skills to support others along this journey.
